

Homelessness is not simply the encampments we see in the Minneapolis and St. Paul, it exists in the suburbs too. What can faith communities do to help address homelessness?

Settled (Settled.org) activates and equips faith communities to pursue home with the homeless through sustainable housing, purposeful work, and supportive community. All faith communities can help make tiny home communities a reality. It can be by hosting a community on your church land, financial support, help to build homes or other support for the needs of the community.

Settled (Settled.org) has a vision and you can see that vision come to life by joining Do Good Roseville on a tour of their model community in St. Paul.

Sacred Settlements are an innovative, research-based way to address long-term homelessness by developing holistic tiny home communities in cooperation with a faith community. Each resident has their own tiny home, and as a whole, the community shares facilities and amenities such as kitchen and dining spaces, bathrooms, laundry, gardens, workshops, and gathering areas. The land is managed by a religious or social organization to maintain standards for safety and welfare. Specially-trained missional-neighbors live in the settlement and work with all the members to ensure that the settlement is healthy and thriving. A team of advocate-befrienders wrap around each inhabitant coming off the streets to build trusted relationships, walk alongside them as they journey to meet their life goals, and connect them with valuable support services.

The first tiny homes have been built at Woodlands Hills Church. There are two proposed Sacred Settlements: Faith Lutheran Church in Forest Lake and Mosaic Christian Community in St. Paul.

Please join us to see and hear what is possible.
